INGENIUM launches its first joint micro-credential: “Towards INGENIUM Micro-credentials Framework”

The pilot course, jointly developed by the University of Oviedo, the South-Eastern Finland University of Applied Sciences and the University of Crete, trains academic and administrative staff in the design, management and certification of joint INGENIUM micro-credentials. A fully online, 1-ECTS course that trains staff to design joint micro-credentials and demonstrates, in practice, how the INGENIUM accreditation circuit operates from the initial proposal stage through to final digital certification via Europass.

Who can apply

The course is addressed to academic and administrative staff of the INGENIUM partner universities, as well as to external partners with an interest in the design and delivery of joint micro-credentials.

Pre-registration is open from 27 April to 3 May

Submit your personal and institutional details through the official online form

Online teaching from 11 May to 30 June.
